The Dyson Foundation was established in 1957 by Charles H. and Margaret M. Dyson as a means of formalizing and furthering their family’s charitable giving. In its forty-five years of grant making, the Dyson Foundation has grown and evolved and has awarded over $90,000,000 to worthy organizations, innovative programs, and compelling causes. In 2001, the Dyson Foundation made 144 grants to 125 different organizations, totaling $12,503,211.

During their lifetimes, Charles and Margaret Dyson were generous, thoughtful, and gracious philanthropists who believed in the importance of giving back to a society that had given them so much. The Dyson Foundation’s assets are derived from bequests from the estates of Margaret Dyson, who passed away in 1990, and her husband, Charles, who died in 1997. Their values and convictions continue to guide the Foundation’s work in what we believe to be the best tradition of American family philanthropy.
President’s Letter

Over one hundred and seventy years ago during his historic travels through this country, Alexis de Tocqueville was struck by the penchant of our forebears to form associations of mutual benefit. It is this attribute of what many nowadays call “civic engagement” that was such an extraordinary feature of the days following September 11th. An astonishing three quarters of Americans said that they donated money or volunteered in the wake of the terrorist attacks. This spontaneous outpouring characterized American philanthropy at its best and de Tocqueville would have probably said, “I told you so.”

It is near impossible to reflect on the year 2001 without centering any and every such discussion on the impact of the terrorist attacks. At the Dyson Foundation we have pondered our own reactions. Should we redirect funds towards disaster relief? Should we decrease our grant awards to correspond with the lower value of our investments? Should we postpone new major initiatives to see what the future holds?

Our answers and decisions, we hope, have reflected our belief and commitment to the nonprofit sector and the important work that it does to sustain our communities and our democratic values. We decided not to reduce our total grantmaking in 2001 or beyond, even if this might mean increasing our annual grants beyond amount we are legally required to award. In addition to approving $3,968,600 in new grants, the Dyson Foundation awarded a record total of 144 grants totaling $12,503,211. We continued our multi-year commitment to fund an additional round of sites as part of the Anne E. Dyson Community Pediatrics Training Initiative. We recommitted to participating with other area funders in another initiative to reduce the technology gaps in our communities.

One of the most important steps that the Foundation took in 2001 was the approval at year-end of a new Management Assistance Program for the Mid-Hudson Valley of New York State to help nonprofits build their skills and organizational capacities. We are providing mini-grants for consulting and training, have funded a management support organization to open an office in the region, and are offering cash flow loans to our grantees, along with technology planning services. We believe that this may be one of the most important programs we have ever launched.

The nonprofit organization, as de Tocqueville observed so many years ago, represents one of the most fundamentally “democratic” foundations of our society. Even after the highly publicized problems associated with some of the handling of the contributions to disaster relief after 9/11, the public’s confidence and trust in the nonprofit sector has remained high. In October of last year, over 88% of respondents to a national survey reported that they were confident in their trust of charitable organizations. There are almost no other segments of our society that merit levels of confidence this high. And yet, these are not good times for nonprofit organizations. Most are suffering from reduced funding and increased demand — and that was before September 11th and subsequent state budget cuts.

So we continue to stand by the many groups providing key services in our community, and will continue to do so. No one has addressed this need better than Bill Moyers, speaking at a meeting of grantmakers not long after the attacks, when he said: “We’re survivors now, you and I. We will be defined not by the lives we led until the 11th of September, but by the lives we will lead from now on. So go home — make the best grants you’ve ever made. And the biggest — we have too little time to pinch pennies. Back the committed and courageous people in the field — and back them with media to spread the message. Stick your neck out. Let your work be charged with passion, and your life with a sense of mission. For when all is said and done, the most important grant you’ll ever make is the gift of yourself, to the work at hand.” And for us, at the Dyson Foundation, this says it all.

CURRENT FUNDING AREAS and GRANTS PROGRAMS

Funding Program for the Mid-Hudson Valley of New York State

Dutchess County — Through the grants it makes in the Mid-Hudson Valley, the Dyson Foundation seeks to improve and enhance the quality of life in the region by supporting social services, health, community and economic development, and arts and cultural programs. The Foundation will consider proposals in any of these areas from applicants in Dutchess County, New York. Of special interest are projects focusing on economically disadvantaged children and youth, improving the community’s health care services, strengthening the infrastructure of the nonprofit sector, and increasing philanthropy and charitable giving in the region.

Other Mid-Hudson Valley Counties — Applications from other areas considered to be part of the Mid-Hudson Valley (Putnam, Ulster, Greene, Columbia, and Orange counties) will be considered if the proposed program:

• has a substantial impact on Dutchess County (e.g., serving a large number of Dutchess County residents);
• or will have a regional impact on problems or issues that are significant in their scope;
• or represents true regional collaborations between multiple organizations or agencies;
• or provides important and needed services to economically disadvantaged children, youth and families;
• or improves access to health care for economically disadvantaged communities.

Management Assistance Program — In 2002 the Dyson Foundation launched a new regional Management Assistance Program (MAP) to increase the organizational health of nonprofits in the Mid-Hudson Valley by providing capacity-building management assistance services. This program helps local organizations improve their internal operations, administration, and management so they are healthier for the long term. For detailed information about the MAP initiative, see page 15, or visit www.dysonfoundation.org/map.
Anne E. Dyson Community Pediatrics Training Initiative

In 2000, the Foundation's then President, Anne E. Dyson, launched a national initiative aimed at developing pediatric professionals with greater skills and interest in community-based medicine, advocacy, and the capacity to improve the health of children in their communities. Two rounds of funding have been awarded through a competitive selection process. New proposals for funding will not be considered.

Please see page 13 for more information about this initiative, or contact the Anne E. Dyson Community Pediatrics Training Initiative program office managed by the Department of General Pediatrics at Children's Hospital Boston:

Legacy and Family Interest Grants

Grant commitments made in this category are tied to the historic or current interests of members of the Dyson family. Included in this funding area are grants made through the Dyson Family Giving Program.

Recommendations for funding in this category are, in all cases, initiated by Family Directors of the Foundation's board or the staff of the Foundation. Uninvited proposals or inquiries will not be considered.

Directors' Discretionary Grants

Members of the Board of Directors and Officers have the opportunity to direct a certain amount of grant funding to eligible nonprofit organizations of their choosing. While these grants do not reflect the Foundation's overall funding priorities, they do reflect the diversity and creativity of the Foundation's Directors.

Recommendations for funding in this category of funding are, in all cases, initiated by Board Directors and Officers. Uninvited proposals or inquiries will not be considered.
IMPORTANT GRANTMAKING CONSIDERATIONS

Types of grants
The Foundation prefers to fund special projects rather than general operating expenses (general overhead or indirect costs may not be included in submitted budgets). Grants to capital campaigns or endowments are considered on a case-by-case basis and are generally restricted to institutions that the Foundation has previously supported. The Foundation will consider grants for management or technical assistance, demonstration or pilot projects, start-up costs, evaluation, advocacy, limited equipment purchases, and small-scale publications or conferences. The Foundation will consider multi-year awards, as well as challenge grants.

Areas not supported
The Foundation will not make grants:
• to individuals (this includes scholarships, which are only provided through grants to academic institutions);
• for fundraising events, tickets, or benefit advertising;
• in response to direct mail campaigns;
• for international projects;
• to service clubs and similar organizations;
• for debt reduction.

Eligible organizations
The Foundation supports organizations that are tax-exempt under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Service Code, and which are not classified as foundations under Section 509(a) of the Code. Occasionally the Foundation will consider grants to eligible organizations acting as fiscal sponsors to other non-qualifying organizations.

The Foundation will generally not consider proposals from governmental units (such as public schools and libraries).

Special Note Regarding Faith-Based Organizations or Programs: The Dyson Foundation will not generally fund faith-based organizations or institutions for activities and/or programs of religious teaching or training such as religious services or bible study. However, the Foundation will consider grants for community-based service programs that meet certain criteria, including: services must be available to all regardless of their religion or belief in God and must not be rooted in a particular religious doctrine or belief system, there is a formal structure for provision of services (e.g., mission, staff, program policies and procedures), services go beyond religious charitable work to include activities that make a real impact on the lives of people living in their communities, and the organization or institution agrees to abide by the Dyson Foundation's policy on nondiscrimination.

Policy on Nondiscrimination

The Dyson Foundation will not award grant support to organizations that, in their constitution, bylaws, or practices, discriminate against a person or group on the basis of age, race, national origin, ethnicity, gender, disability, sexual orientation, political affiliation, or religious belief. Grantees may target services to a particular population when the targeted groups require specialized programs to meet specific needs not shared by the general population.
HOW TO APPLY FOR A GRANT

The Dyson Foundation tries not to impose a rigid application procedure and makes every effort to be responsive and flexible. We ask that applicants carefully review this entire section of information before contacting the Foundation. We understand the search for funding can be frustrating and difficult, and we hope to not make the process more difficult than is necessary.

1. Please review the sections of this publication entitled CURRENT FUNDING AREAS and GRANTS PROGRAMS and IMPORTANT GRANTMAKING CONSIDERATIONS to determine if your organization is eligible and whether your programs meet our funding interests. Applicants should apply to the Dyson Foundation on the basis of these guidelines, not on the basis of what or whom the Foundation may have funded in the past. This Foundation's interests are ever-changing, becoming more focused, or even shifting entirely to a new area in response to an emerging need.

2. Please review the Foundation’s website at www.dysonfoundation.org for any updates to these guidelines or additional information for applicants. If you do not have access to the Internet, please call the Foundation to find out if these guidelines have been updated.

3. Do not submit an unsolicited proposal. Rather, submit a two- to three-page letter of inquiry that includes the following elements:
   • A brief statement of the organization's purpose and goals;
   • A description of the project being proposed, the need, and its target population;
   • Information about the capability of the leadership, both staff and volunteer when applicable, who will implement the project;
   • Expected outcomes and how the project will be evaluated; and
   • The grant amount requested, the total project budget, and other funding sources being approached, including committed and projected sources of support.

Letters of inquiry should not be accompanied by annual reports, brochures, or additional pages of “illustrative materials.” Please do not send unsolicited videotapes, curricula, reports, etc. Inquiries are judged on the basis of substance, not volume. Do not exceed three pages.
4. If you would like to talk with a Foundation program officer before submitting your letter of inquiry, please feel free to call. However, our experience is that we can have more informed and helpful conversations after an initial letter of inquiry has been reviewed.

5. All applicants will receive written responses to their letters of inquiry.

6. If a project appears to address key Foundation interests, the applicant will be invited to submit additional information or a fully developed proposal. Foundation staff will generally work closely with applicants on developing an acceptable proposal and related materials.

Each project proposal will be evaluated on its own merits according to the following criteria:
• Closeness of fit with the Foundation's program priorities and values;
• Significance of the need to be addressed;
• Potential to add value and achieve significant and enduring results;
• Capacity of the applicant-agency to accomplish its goals and objectives; and
• Appropriateness of the budget.

During the review, representatives of the Foundation will research the proposal through telephone inquiries, site visits, and meetings with agency staff, board, volunteers, and clients as necessary. On occasion, outside experts may be asked to help review a particular proposal. Foundation staff submit written proposal summaries and recommendations to the Board of Directors.

7. The time required to review a proposal varies according to the complexity of the proposal itself, the problem being addressed, and the number of proposals being reviewed. Generally, it can take at least six months from the time a letter of inquiry is received to the actual award of a grant, although the Foundation strives to be as expeditious as possible in its review of inquiries and proposals. Occasionally, and under very special circumstances, a “fast-track” decision can be obtained in selected emergency cases. The Directors of the Dyson Foundation meet quarterly, at which time they consider the funding recommendations of the staff. There are no pre-set deadlines for submission of materials.

Anne E. Dyson Community Pediatrics Training Initiative

The goal of the Anne E. Dyson Community Pediatrics Training Initiative is the establishment of pediatric residency training programs that foster a commitment to community concerns. The Initiative hopes to support the development of pediatric professionals with greater skills and interest in community-based medicine, advocacy, and the capacity to improve the well-being of all children in their communities.

Two competitive selection rounds were conducted, the first beginning in 1999 and the second in 2001. Over 130 proposals were received, and after a rigorous review process, a total of ten pediatric departments throughout the United States were selected to receive awards. Each department is receiving a five-year grant ranging from $1.7 to $2.5 million.

Round One (2000 – 2005) Initiative grantees:
- Children's Hospital of Philadelphia, Philadelphia, PA;
- Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons in collaboration with Harlem Hospital Center, New York, NY;
- Medical College of Wisconsin, Milwaukee, WI;
- University of California, San Diego School of Medicine in collaboration with the Naval Medical Center Pediatrics, San Diego, CA;
- University of Hawai'i School of Medicine, Honolulu, HI; and
- University of Rochester, Rochester, NY.

Round Two (2002 – 2007) Initiative grantees:
- University of California, Davis School of Medicine, Davis, CA;
- Indiana University, Indianapolis, IN;
- University of Florida Health Science Center, Jacksonville, FL; and
- University of Miami, Miami, FL.

The Anne E. Dyson Community Pediatrics Training Initiative is managed by a national program office in the Department of General Pediatrics at Children's Hospital in Boston under the leadership of Judith Palfrey, M.D. The Women's and Children's Health Policy Center at Johns Hopkins University School of Public Health, Department of Population and Family Health Sciences is conducting a cross-site evaluation to assess the short- and long-term outcomes of the Initiative, under the direction of Bernard Guyer, M.D., M.P.H.

Mid-Hudson Valley Nonprofit Management Assistance Program

Acting on the belief that strong nonprofit management leads to more effective organizations, the Foundation launched the Mid-Hudson Valley Nonprofit Management Assistance Program (MAP program) in the spring of 2002.

The Foundation recognizes the growing need for management assistance as many nonprofits’ resources are stretched while pressures for their services rise. We believe that nonprofit organizations that are well managed and fiscally sound, have engaged boards and appropriate governance, and rely on sound planning for strategic results, are more likely to produce better programs, higher performance, and have a greater impact in the communities they serve.

The four-part MAP program seeks to help local organizations improve their internal operations, administration, and management by providing the following capacity-building services:

- The availability of a management support organization, the Council of Community Services of New York State. This Albany-based membership organization, open to any nonprofit in New York State, maintains an office in Poughkeepsie to centrally serve the Mid-Hudson region with a wide variety of management support services.
- A Mini-Grant program to help nonprofits in the Mid-Hudson Valley (Columbia, Dutchess, Greene, Orange, Putnam, and Ulster counties) develop new skills by providing financial support to hire consultants or to attend conferences, workshops, or seminars. Competitively awarded grant amounts of up to $10,000 can be applied to CCSNY’S fees or consultants and providers of an organization’s choosing.
- A Cash Flow Loan program for current Mid-Hudson Valley Dyson Foundation grantees to allow them to continue operating without a disruption of services when funding from other sources is delayed. This program makes interest-free short-term (30-180 days) cash flow loans of up to $50,000 per loan against fully approved government contracts and foundation or corporate grants at the cost of a small service charge.
- Technology consulting for current Mid-Hudson Valley Dyson Foundation grantees. This may include technology planning and budgeting assistance.

The application procedures for MAP funding are different from the Foundation’s regular grant application process described in the How To Apply For A Grant section. For more information on each of the MAP programs, or to obtain guidelines and application forms, please visit www.dysonfoundation.org/map or call the Foundation office.

Digital Divide Initiative

In 2001, the Dyson Foundation collaborated with IBM and the United Way of Dutchess County to help bridge the “digital divide” by providing nonprofit organizations in the county with hardware, software, wiring for Internet access, training, consulting, and implementation. As a result of this partnership, these eleven nonprofits have been able to increase the availability of technology training and computer access in the communities they serve.

The Dyson Foundation awarded the following grants to these organizations as part of this initiative:

- Catharine Street Community Center
  Poughkeepsie, New York $14,000
- Dover Plains Library
  Wingdale, New York $13,000
- Family Services, Inc.

Opinion data is from a study, commissioned by The D yson Foundation, which represents a unique effort to examine in depth how people view the present and future directions of the M id-Hudson Valley region. The goal was to assess the needs and priorities for the M id-Hudson Valley through the opinions of both its residents and its community leaders. The M arist College Institute for Public Opinion conducted two surveys; 3,882 residents and 245 community leaders in six counties including Columbia, D utchess, Greene, Orange, P utnam, and U lster were interviewed for the study. T he full report is to be released during the fall of 2002.

Marist College Institute for Public Opinion study, 2002
To laugh often and much; to win the respect of intelligent people and the affection of children; to earn the appreciation of honest critics and endure the betrayal of false friends; to appreciate beauty, to find the best in others; to leave the world a little better; whether by a healthy child, a garden patch or a redeemed social condition; to know even one life has breathed easier because you have lived. This is the meaning of success.”

— Ralph Waldo Emerson
